GEOCON was contracted by KPRG to perform subcontract drilling operations for groundwater monitoring well installation and soil sampling. Four groundwater monitoring wells were installed to depths ranging from approximately 50 to 55 feet below ground surface in a silty sand and bedrock formation. Overlying soils consisted of generally silty clay. The well installation extended approximately five feet into the Silurian dolomite bedrock. The wells were constructed with 2"-diameter PVC and were completed with above grade protective covers and damage prevention bollards.
